http://www.abc.net.au/pm/content/2007/s1920977.htm m Fri, 11 May 2007 18:27:00 +1000 http://www.abc.net.au/reslib/200705/r143146_496670.mp3		A new scientific study is expected to put greater pressure on tropical nations to reduce the number of forests they're allowing to be slashed and burned. The CSIRO study, published in the journal Science , has found that tropical deforestation accounts for nearly 20 per cent of global carbon emissions attributed to human activity. It's also found it would be relatively easy to cut emissions.
